The share point link seems to be working now. I went into the document and added a few comments directly to you and highlighted in yellow. My comments were based, as we discussed during yeserday's conversation, on comparing what EPA said in the 2002 TMDL Review Guidelines and what Region said. I pointed out inconsistencies so you can determine if you can live with those inconsistencies or want to massage (or have me massage) the language to remove the inconsistencies.
